BLOOMSBURG, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1866.

PRICE FIVE CENTS.

BY THE BROOK.

BY CHARLES WARREN STODDARD. Down across the hill's low brow-A slender, silver fillet-Nothing is so musical
As my little rillet.
Ab! that laughing song of yours! Delicately trill it.

Shall I fret you, hasty brook? Shall I mar your paces-Weaver, weaving silver threads Into silver inces, Round about and in and out The sunniest of places?

Lorse your tresses in the chase, Sitp about the border
Of you garden wall, and eatch
A blosson, gay marauder?
What shall please my love of case
As your sweet distriter.

While the world goes joysting on, Presently I miss you; Life is made of other stuff

Than your limple tissue, Turn a mill, you laxy rill, While I wait the issue. Let the beetle while away The Summer with his drumming, Foam you at the whirling wheel And habble to its humming

It is more becoming. Creep beneath the sweeping bough, While each ripple twinkles, Starlike, in a sky of leaves, And your frothy crinkles

Form a leather arron there, Full of creamy wrinkles, When the bald and brazen day Still you flow a-down apace, While night's myriad eyes are Watching you; for what they view None are the wiser.

THE FIRST CLERK'S STORY BY W. E. WILCOX.

ed a lemon into his tumbler.

and Co. solemnly promised that the termined to bring her back to England, lady came into the room. never be broken.

against myself."

peals, and Herbert said :

Fil make some return by trying to thought that the young lady would re- that has been sent over to fetch me?" amuse you boys with the account of turn home willingly.

tidase

s Sum-

es in a ils rates

dollars general nent of News, om our ring the special literials W EEK-ed con-d. News aral and American week

EMMELT,

ER.

UNE et, mak ench. I ublishe

f merely ie Inteand in our large receive her parartant in Synope
Legish

ontial wattle, Dry inding is other to ce WEEL

HIBUNE and com-ty local in ritleisms: and be-associated alone, fix to eight nagazine, i, the con Nowher

bers...$1

receive sa

receive so

FE is pub

217 3

principal then, and a very shrewd, ente girl, and too inexperienced to be trusted nothing else. old fellow he was, I can tell you. Mr. with the duty of an escort. Troutman was then a clerk, and junior "I returned to my seat and thought would have a companion; but I shall ure, that gave me the task of escorting first frowned, then smiled, and finally 30 me, but every one knew that he over all that I had heard, and all I was be very happy to be of use to her.' you home; and I shall make no apology reared. I entreated him to keep my jng figures on my blotting-pad, the to Mrs. Slater, desiring her to send the dame? said I, and then we can leave to You've managed to bring some one says that about a month ago, a ragged bank messenger came to me and said young lady to Antwerp, under charge Antwerp at half past seven, catch the else's portunantean. that Mr. Baskerville wished to speak to of a servant."

found him seated at his desk, and in an Engledue, "wouldn't I just like a little arm-chair beside him sat a middle-aged, thing of that sort to do?"

kerville said: fooled to This, my lord, is the gentleman me."

fidence in him.'

"Well, I will trust to you, and I tenance.

Lord Valdane's carriage is at the door, know what to do.' will you, Mr. Minton ?'

"I returned with the requisite infor- asked.

"It appeared that Lord Valdane had train." The youngest of his daughters, when understand?' said I. just sixteen, had caused great trouble brothers lessons on his instrument, cal man? said I. before, and had given rise to great re- one being sent for. eriminations, and the young lady had ""Well, said I, "it cannot be helped; Constantia as possible. friends, so foreign was it, apparently, able to travel. nities might offer. Under these circum- was. her to a school kept by a English lady down stales in the course of an hour.

Years ago."

We were delighted—I especially so, being the host for the night, and anxious, as such, that things should go off well.

We drew up to the fire, glasses were filled, and the roles of the relation of the roles of the relation of the roles of the role of the role of the roles of the role of the r an incident that happened to me some ""They imagine that she will do so," be convenient to you to set out on your filled, and the relies of the contents of Arne, is described to me as an effemithe hamper, which the dear people at bome had sent me, were removed. The wanting in many of those manly at
"Oh! by the way,' said she,' there's wanting in many of those manly at
"Oh! by the way,' said she,' there's wanting in many of those manly at
"Oh! by the way,' said she,' there's wanting in many of those manly at
"Isat as far as I could from her, and, fares back to England, we could do no young man selzed the wheelbarrow and young man selzed the young the hamper, which the dear people at mate-looking, though elegant man, but you home without delay."

a party. Mr. Minton took an approving him again for a paper of instructions gether.'

sip of his hot grog, drew his fingers that he would give me, as well as a let"How strange, thought I, that the 'Come, say something, man, and don't er not. Tickets? That gendeman has through his iron-gray hair, and began: ter from Lord Valdane to his daughter, servant should have made no mention leave me languishing here. Here we mine guard. Ta-tat Sorry you've no "In the year forty-six, I had been directing her to place herself under my of this other pupil. But I suppose she might have a very pretty little bit of time for a game; best love to papa-insome seven years a clerk in the bank. charge. He also told me that she would was so much engressed with Miss Val- flirting, if you would only say tit to law. And taking his portmanteau, he Our Mr. Baskerville's father was the be accompanied by her maid, a young dane's illness that she could think of my tat.'

would be a partner some day, as he had to do. I confess I did not like the work; "'I'il call her down,' she said, and for saying that I have had no pleasure failure from the other clerks, and you kerville, who looks grave enough now, bargained for on entering a bank, and shouted, 'Amy, come down,' forc, permit me to finish my business in the way I think best, which is to about them?" said I.

told my poor mother, as steady as the per of instructions, and returned home gravity when she was introduced to manteen from under the seat and unfunds.' In consequence of this gravity to read them, having first received from me.

of manner and character for steadiness, the cashier, by Mr. Baskerville's orders, "" What on earth are you laughing at, "I compiled, to save further words, boys, 'Home, sweet home.'"

I thanked our grading tree. That several times been employed in matters of a confidential nature, and my conduct in these had been appropriate my conduct in the same in proved of. One afternoon in the lat- to start for Dover by that night's mail, silly, I'm afraid. ter part of August, in the year I speak of, I was sitting at my desk with not very much to do. I had been thinking be very firm with Miss Valdane, and saw the usual contents of the same a good deal about my own affairs, and was advised to avoid any attempts at before I had time to put in a discharger there, visions of very gentlemanly-looks hero of the story of which he himself gone back over ground rather painful intimacy on her part. I was simply to to this opinion, she added, 'I don't her guranents below; in fact, nothing was also the relater. for me to tread, and was therefore be her escort, and as far as possible to know what you people are going to do, whatever that ought to belong to a lady's rather sad that surny August afternoon. relieve her of all trouble. She would but I'm going to disc."

While I was meditating and idly draw-expect me, as a letter had been written "Shall we disc at once, Miss Val-than otherwise, and said:

A MILWAUKUE, Wisconsin, paper

me. I went into his private room and "By Jove, though!" said Herbert don by mid-day to-morrow."

invalid-looking man, whose handsome "Wait until you hear the end of my finished, the young ladies went to their tume. However, before making the evident straightforwardness of the boy, der, and asked him what he was doing tute for ordinary writing paper made of face were a pecvish sort of expression story, and you will think differently," rooms to prepare for the journey, that seemed to be permanent, Mr. Bass said Mr. Minton; "no one likes to be

dence in employing in the matter.' tions, by the night mail for Dover, and "I could not help wishing myself sent you over to Antwerp to bring home ask to redeem his note. Upon inquiry, the answer and the condition of the The stranger looked at me languidly, at one o'clock the next day found myself back again at the bank and my hands that he had in- boy, in whose eye and flushed face he Max do not leap the hill of virtue in and slightly inclined his head as I at the door of the Hotel St. Antoine at clean washed of my escentric charge, who, it was hoped, had forgotten her vested the money in papers and oranges, saw evidence of fever. "Rather young for such work, Is he had arrived, and was asked to step up to a much as we were leaving the hotel by balmorals, will you? Thanks.) You, lars, which he was about placing in a cr," said he, "and took them away to stant. You took up your newspaper not, Baskerville? drawing-room on the second floor. No interfering with the various directions accordingly, being a very elever young savings bank. He had no father nor mother, and did chores at a friend's me when she was sick that God would you shuddered at—the wife-beating, the Minton is grave and steady beyond his but in a few minutes a respectable-look- station she had an altereation with a of course eminently fitted for the work, house for board. That boy will make take care of me. I have no home, no- murder-think you these have a sudyears, and the firm has very great coning, middle-aged woman came in, with porter, which exhausted all my rather and were therefore chosen to do it. (Just his mark yet.

"If you will leave it to me, my lord, very unwell, and has been obliged to go the young lady's spirits, and she lay on her on having recovered from her little will undertake that Mr. Minton shall to bed. This has upset all the plans a bench on deck with a stiffish glass of attack of love, and saying something receive full instructions. Just see if that had been arranged, and I don't brandy and water beside her, and held disparaging of the poor lover, who was shut the door and sit down beside him, rectly after we got to the hotel. The dead amasement. and proceeded to give me full and com- worst of it is,' said she, after a pause, plete instructions as to how I was to act. 'that I have to return by this evening's three daughters, besides several sons. "The young lady has her maid, and distress to her family by falling in tainly; but she is young and flighty, love with a violinist, who had come con- and I haven't much confidence in her.'

This had been discovered about a year "'Oh, no, sir, she wouldn't hear of had shown an amount of obstinacy and you must return to your mistress, and I declared her intention of holding any sent up my compliments to Miss Val- on the pier, and then returned and broken off in the middle.) Well, the when the drunken man broke into believe that the President's heart has declared her intention of holding any sent up my companies to start at once if we maid told her story, and the youth Hs-snatches of a song or nameaning laugh-failed him in the task; that he has fallen Brussels, and hoped that a year or two of entire change and absence from home boat. I found that by leaving Ostend of entire change and absence from home boat at last passage and absence from home boat. I found that by leaving Ostend of the house' in a saway they go. (The advantage of this away they go. (The advantage of this are paratus is, that you hang up the glass are paratus is, that you hang up the glass are paratus is, that you hang up the glass are paratus is, that you hang up the glass are paratus is, that you hang up the glass are paratus is, that you hang up the glass are paratus is, that you hang up the glass are paratus is at last paratus is at last paratus is a paratus is present writer, Herbert Engledue, and utterly destroy those relations which would be convenient to me to have an said; young Harry Chester, all junior clerks should exist between mistress and pulliterview with her mistress. I, of course, pil. Lord Valdane lad, therefore, de-assented, and directly afterward a young

seal that was to lock up the communi-cation we were about to receive should this arrangement as he had had infor-with some curiosity. Her appearance pertuanteau, which Miss Valdane said theman to London." mation that Mr. Arne had left this coun- surprised me. She was dark, and had was hers. "And yet," said Mr. Minton, with try for America. Having no servant the kettle in his hand, "I hardly think to whom he could trust the duty of respects was by no means good-looking, compartment," said she; and, I say, "Felix Arne; and now, my good are better imagined than described." I'll let it out to you youngsters; it's all escorting his daughter home, Lord Val- and seemed to want the ease and savoir- tell the guard to let us have the carriage fellow, the farce is played out, and I'll dane had come to Mr. Baskerville, wity faire that I should have imagined a to ourselves; you're not afraid of me, take off this trumpery, Harry Chester's eyes looked eager ap- whom he banked, to ask that some con- girl in her rank would have possessed. and I'm sure I'm not afraid of you. fidential clerk might be sent to Antwerp | She was well and handsomely dressed, "Oh now, come I say, Mr. Minton, to meet Miss Valdane, and bring her but was decidedly not elegant, and there order, as I had no wish whatever for a feminine and the assumption of the you shouldn't have said so much, you home to her father's house in Eaton was a want of freshness and youthful- toteracter but Constantia came up and masculine attire. know; and then to talk about not lets Square. A servant would be sent with ness about her that made her anything gave it herself, together with half a "'You infernal rascall' at last I said. know; and then to talk about not let- Square. A servant would be sent with hes about ner that made her anything gave it herself, together with his goods. The firm were out of duck, rings, gloves, canes, and umbrellas. Ev-

"'I am, Miss Valdane; when will it

November winds howled dismally over tributes which are to most women the a schoolfellow of mine and a great looking out at the window, tried to for-less than provide him with company to the London roofs, and rattled at the chief attraction in a man's character.'
window as if anxious to join so pleasant "Mr. Baskerville told me to come to go home, so we agreed to travel to- with me while I wait for the next train the young man knew very well, riding shop-keeper remaking that it went thir-

married Miss Baskerville. Young Bas- it was not the kind of work that I had going to the door, she called, or rather whatever in the matter. You will, there- three lads are the first who know it.

day time, to run in and out of the bank, superior servant than of a gentleman. I a crowded hotel, and not at home. I hand you over to the care of Lord Val- "Yes; it was not such a very bad afand stare at the piles of sovereigns, just knew, however, how much depended heard a light, tripping step on the stairs, dane with as much dispatch and as lit- fair, after all. He was a gentleman by upon my making myself useful to the and after some little giggling outside the tile talking as possible.' birth, and some uncle of his, delighted "I had had some troubles then, and so I determined to put my door, Miss Valdane came in with a very pretty, mischievous-looking blonde, who said she, 'You surely won't able you must work,' at having an Honorable for a niece, left pretty, mischievous-looking blonde, who said she, 'You surely won't object to them some money, and I believe he setwas looked upon as a grave, sedate pride into my pocket.

young man; and, as Mr. Baskerville "Before I left the office I got my pacould not present the semblance of obligen lady so far as to take that ports the down as a country gentleman.

"' Just as you like,' said she,

an expression of anxiety on her couns scanty stock of French to set right. Miss see if you can find a bine striped flaunch tenance. Scanty stock of French to set right. Miss see if you can find a bine striped flaunch tenance to the find the second striped flaunch tenance ten nations with this young man, if you convenient for Miss Valdane to set out worrying events of the journey to Os- pleasant letter, if it had not been quite the want of it the fellow," think you thoroughly understand what on her journey?"

I want,'

tond as lithe voyage to Dover. Darbur so distanced in the also wrote to his the latter, the sea certainly did sunder affectionate daughter, congranulating regionsly injured by the draught.

Titt corn crop in Virginia has been come with emotion, the same of your tond and the voyage to Dover. During so dicintorial; and he also wrote to his. Titu corn crop in Virginia has been come with emotion, "He has sent me these great sins it has been "here a lit-

"When did this illness come on? I to me as well as her friend. In a great and trow, well, those things under it, mation; and his lordship, after being ""Why, sir, Miss Valdane seemed manners and address, she showed the will come out. You won't?-that's carefully wrapped up, took the arm of very well when we left, but as we got education and remement of a lady, and rude, and not proper conduct to an unone of his men and went to his carriage, near Antwerp she complained of head- yet she encouraged rather than subdued protected woman.) But to continue my to-day; you will promise me, won't "Mr. Baskerville then asked me to ache, and was obliged to go to bed di- her friend's eccentricities by her evi- story, as I see you are getting restless:

"'Just a portmanteau.'
"'Nothing more?' said L

" Not a thing."

train started. Not long after she said: can tell your employer that it's no sort it over. Finishing other business, on in his excitement, seized a large glass " Object to smoking?"

" Mind it?

I must say,' said she, after a time, to Dover? Don't say no, if you'd raths on horseback, overtook him.

her tongue. Miss Manvers was a riddle in America. (If you will take that coat deal that she said and did, and in her and hang them to the roof, the creases By a wonderful chance this forlorn dam-"Upon our arrival at Dover, I found sel saw her unfortunate lover shortly that the next train to London did not after she got papa's note. She shouldn't lie, I will not; you may trust me;" and Memphis riots, which closes with the leave for a couple of hours; so, after have done it, but she did. They put she wrapped her infant in a soft blank-following remarks: "Andrew Johnson giving directions for the examination their heads together—they'd done that et, and they descended. The horses has a gigantic task before him. Few of of our luggage, I went with the two before, but they did it in a different "'Oh, yes, sir, she is with her, cer- girls to the Lord Warden, and ordered manner now, and they made up a little breakfast. Here Miss Manversannoun- plan. The young lady went down to ced her intention of leaving us. She Antwerp under charge, and she got so pered the young wife, as they passed up which he hopes toperform the solemn stantly to the house to give one of her "Has Miss Valdane seen any medi- lad her friends living at Dover, with poorly as she neared the station, and her the steps. Poor thing, she was the wife promise he there made. His measwhom she was going to stay, and she head was so had, and she had, oh! such of a man who loved to look upon the would go to them after we had left, as a pain here, and ah! such a twitch there, wine when red. The party passed lead to such an object, and we must she wished to see as much of her dear that to bed she must go as soon as she pleasantly; the time for departing drew not forget that the children of Israel reached the hotel. The elegant and postnear; the wife descended from the uppassed to their promised land through "After we had had breakfast, Con- lite escort arrived, and was met by a per chamber to join her husband. A forty years of suffering in the desert, had shown an amount of obstinacy and you must return to your mistress, and I died we had shown an amount of obstinacy and you must return to your mistress, and I died we had shown an amount of obstinacy and you must return to your mistress, and I died we had shown an amount of obstinacy and you must return to your mistress, and I died we had shown an amount of obstinacy and you must return to your mistress, and I died we had shown an amount of obstinacy and you must return to your mistress, and I died we had shown an amount of obstinacy and you must return to your mistress, and I died we had shown an amount of obstinacy and you must return to your mistress, and I died we had shown an amount of obstinacy and you must return to your mistress, and I died we had shown an amount of obstinacy and you must return to your mistress, and I died we had shown an amount of obstinacy and you must return to your mistress, and I died we had shown an amount of obstinacy and you must return to your mistress, and I died we had shown an amount of obstinacy and you must return to your mistress, and I died we had shown an amount of obstinacy and you must return to your mistress, and I died we had shown an amount of obstinacy and your mistress, and I died we had shown an amount of obstinacy and your mistress. the place, as we wished to have some if her instructions did not admit much she met him, for he was intoxicated; he mitted to get a glimpse of the counto her nature. She had utterly declin- "In the course of the afternoon, and private conversation with her friend, latitude. (By the way, where do you had broken his promise. ed to give up her lover, and had openly after Mrs. Stater's servant had loft, I I accordingly dawdled away a half-hour get boot-laces? Look at this thing, "Silently they rode homeward, save wished to catch the train. The two tened, and then home goes the maid, ter. But the wife role on, her babe off from the stern resolve required for stances, and in consideration of her ""Miss Valdane's compliments, she girls parted in the most affectionate leaving the youth in sole charge. Shortstances, and in consideration of her youth, her father determined to send was so much better that she hoped to be manner, Miss Manvers seeming more by afterward down comes Wiss Valdane, 'Give me the baby, Millie.' I can't live this. We believe Andrew Johnson anused than ever at the extraordinary recovered and charming; introduces trust you with him, she said, as they to be a patriot—with his heart fixed on her to a school kept by a English haty down states in the course of all address in a village about fifteen miles from the state of a school kept by a English haty down states in the course of all address of all addre would make her get over and forget an at fmif past three the next morning, the melodrama. apparatus is, that you hang up the glass wrapped in a great woolen blanket—to North. It is no fault of his if slavery like this, and then you can shave at his arms. Over the dark waters the lass o degraded a large section of the was accordingly sent to Miss Slater's in time for lunch the same day. I acsection begins at so carry in age. She young any condition are not to the same day. I acsection of the was accordingly sent to Miss Slater's in time for lunch the same day. I acsection of the same day. I acsection of the same day. I acsect the same day are section of the same day. I acsect the same day are section of the same day. I acsect the same day are section of the same day. I acsect the same day are section of the same day. I acsect the same day are section of the same day. I acsect the same day are section of the same day are section of the same day. I acsect the same day are section of the same day are section of the same day. I acsect the same day are section of the same day are section of the same day. I acsect the same day are section of the same "With I'm now going to tell you, boys, must be kept under the seal of sections," said our first clerk, as he squeezresv." said our first clerk, as he sq resy," said our first elerk, as he squeezda lemon into his tumbler.

We—that is to say, I, Ned Belton, the

The conduct was of such a kind as to

Some the conduct was of such a kind as to

Some that she could no longer ans

Conduct was of such a kind as to

Some that she could no longer ans

Conduct was of such a kind as to

Some that she could no longer ans

Some that she could no longer ans

Conduct was of such a kind as to

Some that she could no longer ans

Some that she could no longer and she could no longer ans

Some that she could no longer ans

So point of the story-only Miss Vaidane, from the blanket, and the drunken for whom Mr. Minton was sent, and over father knew it not. A wild shrick from OFFERINGS TO AN ACTRESS. whom he was to exercise the tender- the mother aroused him, and he turned

"I fell back in my seat, and watched, "I was going to disregard this last with dizzy brain, the shedding of the

to be known yet, only his precipitancy with heat. ook a eigar-case out of her pocket, and, to have some fun out of the gentleman town. Will you play a game of billiards pushed on, sauntered down the station. " 'Excuse me, Miss Valdane,' I said; "How I got my story told at head-"'I was not aware,' said I, 'that you 'but it was business, and not pleas- quarters I don't know. Mr. Baskerville stand, never forgiven them; and now, morning at a later hour, we youngsters He must be depended upon. And you fire, and at one gun there was only one "I slid so, and saw the usual contents could scarcely believe that the grave will like to know, perhaps, that this

A MIGWAUKUR, Wisconsin, paper

fittle urchin called upon a merchant for night mail at Ostend, and be in Lon- "'No I haven't, you elever man; I'm lifty cents, for which he promised to in a large city, evidently bright and in- grass, a grass which grows in great rather given to foreign customs, and af- give his note, bearing interest at ten per telligent, but sick. A man who has the abundance upon all tide-water flats, feet what you, you mass of propriety, cent. The merchant, struck with the feelings of kindness strongly developed. The paper is very white and clear, and "'I ordered dinner for three, and that would consider eccentricities in my cos- novelty of the proposition, and with the went to him, shook him by the shoul- will undoubtedly prove a good substi-"I could hear Miss Valdane whistling dear papa, let me tell you a little story, as the boy insisted upon giving it. He "Walting for God to come for me," that it can be manufactured for twenty kerylle said:

"This, my lord, is the gentleman whom I should have the greatest configure of the store one day and I must say that the say ou seem in want of amusement.'

"Your elever people in London, backed by the wishes of Lord Valdane, backed by the wishes of Lord Valdane, backed by the wishes of Lord Valdane, backed by the greatest configure of the swinting interests of the Antwerp. I inquired if Miss Valdane Miss Valdane embarrassed me very disgraceful engagement. (Give me those and had already made about forty doi-think you fully understand all that is "Are you the gentleman from Lon- but always as if more amused by her over the arm of the seat to alr). Well, imreduced the other day to poet Lange care of me, as mother said He would, the volcanie flame; you see the smouldwanted, I would rather not give myself the fatigue of entering into expla"1 aut,' said I. 'When will it be "It is needless for me to detail all the bridge; you did not see the fittle madres."

Wanted, I would rather not give myself the fatigue of entering into expla"1 aut,' said I. 'When will it be bridge; you did not see the fittle madres."

Wanted, I would rather not give myself the fatigue of entering into expla"1 aut,' said I. 'When will it be bridge; you did not see the fittle madres."

Wanted, I would rather not give myself the fatigue of entering into expla"1 aut,' said I. 'When will it be bridge; you did not see the fittle madres."

A TOUCHING INCIDENT. THE Glasgow Christian News gives the ollowing as no fiction, but the plain his face, as he said: "Mother never told truth: "A young man and his wife me a lie, sir, but you have been so long were preparing to attend a Christmas on the way," party, at the house of a friend, some miles distant. 'Henry, my dear husband, don't drink too much at the party you? said she, putting her hand upon PRESIDENT JOHNSON'S TASK. his brow, and raising her eyes to his THE Anglo-American Times, publish-ness of a parent, with the authority of a round just in time to see the little rosy "Accordingly I found a not very large guardian, does not accompany that gen-face rise one moment above the dark waters, then sink forever, and that by ". Then who are you?" I almost his own intemperance! The anguish of the mother and remorse of the father

A GOOD JOB. ting it out, you know it's so jolly mysterious."

terious."

Well," said our cheery chief, "as Net met by the person chosen to escort "We found the person chosen to escort thing you say, for I dare say you are the person chosen to escort thing you say, for I dare say you are the person chosen to escort thing you say, for I dare say you are the person chosen to escort thing you say, for I dare say you are the person chosen to escort thing you say, for I dare say you are the person chosen to escort thing you say, for I dare say you are the person chosen to escort thing you say, for I dare say you are the person chosen to escort thing you say, for I dare say you are the person chosen to escort thing you say, for I dare say you are the person chosen to escort thing you say, for I dare say you are not prove the person chosen to escort the control of the person chosen to escort thing you say, for I dare say you are not prove the person chosen to escort thing you say, for I dare say you are not prove the person chosen to escort t of use making any further fuss about his return to Charlestown the clerk from the chandeller, and hurled it toward "'No, thanks, Miss Valdane; it's me. I was married to his daughter found the man not half way over the the stage, but missed his mark and shatvery good of you, but I don't smoke, some months ago, but did not intend it bridge, sitting on his barrow half dead tored it upon your correspondent's

"What," said he, "Mr. Wilder turned truckman!" "Yes," answered the clerk. "The goads are promised at one o'clock, and mined to be as good as my word." "Good, good!" said the gentleman, and trotted on. Calling at the store where the young ment has had its equanimity consideraman was employed, he told his em- bly disturbed by the revival of the Fenployer what he had seen, the gentleman, "that when he goes into are to follow soon. business for himself my name is at his service for thirty thousand dollars." Reaching the store, which he did in distribute to the agriculturists specitime, you may be sure, the price set on mens of superior Mediterranean white his conduct made amends for all the wheat, which will be put up in quart heat, anxiety, and fatigue of the job. packages, and delivered free upon re-Keeping his word. You see how important it is regarded. It is one of the best kinds of capital a man can have. To be worth much to anybody a boy His company was under a tremendous country. His name was S. V. Wilder, dare you have your shake on your head and he was the first President of the American Tract Society.—Child's Pa-

A LESSON OF TRUST.

SOME time are a boy was discovered ples of paper manufactured from Sedge body to give me anything, and so I den inspiration? Not they are the out-

Terms of Advertising.

One Square, one or three insections.

Luch anterprient insection less than thirteen Executor's and Administrator's Notices Auditor's Notices

Editorial Notices twenty cents per line, Other nevertisements inserted according to spe-

You should have seen his eyes flash and the smile of triumph break over

What a lesson of trust, and how this incident shows the effect of never deceiving children with tales, face, with a pleading smile. 'No, Mil- ed in London, has an article upon the were soon prancing over the turf, and a us can appreciate the enormous difficulpleasant conversation begulied the way. ties with which he has to contend. Few Now, don't forget your promise, whis- of us can understand the means by ares may not appear to us directly to try which Providence had marked out munity-that of governing its own pas-

AT the Aleazar Theatre, in Rio Janeiro, says the correspondent of the Providence Journal, "I saw one Russian officer bring in at times during the evening all the flowers he could carry, and shower them upon an actress. The next day be sent presents to the amount of a thousand dollars. This gentleman, when his floral offerings had given out THE head-clerk of a large firm in and no more could be obtained, finished Charlestown promised an old customer, his gifts by scaling his cap at her. This one day, half a bale of Russia duck, to was the signal for a scene to commence. be on hand precisely at one o'clock, Instantly hats of beaver, silks, and velwhen the man was to leave town with vet were showered upon the stage, and shoulders. At this point be thought it "I stared blankly at her while she how we managed it. We determined half-past twelve, and the goods were half-past twelve half-p promised at one. There was no time to monitors, has not patronized the Alea-

> A PASHIONABLE but Ignorant young lady, desirous of purchasing a watch, ty-six hours: "What, in one day?" An American citizen residing at Sheffield, England, has sent one hundred and forty gross of knives and forks to aid the Portland, Maine, families, that my man has given out; but I am deter- were burned out, in resuming housekeeping.

IT appears that the English Govern-ian scare. Three regiments have already "And I want you to tell him," said been dispatched to Canada, and others THE Commissioner of Agriculture gives notice that he is now prepared to event of application. THE following story is told of a man left to work. The captain went young man became one of the most and helped him to serve the piece, and the officer suddenly, in an interval of loading, exclaimed, "Schmidt! how

IMPORTANT TO PRINTERS. - The Secretary of the Int-rior has received from a gentleman in New Jersey, samcotton and linen rags. It is estimated a moment, nor do they descend into the "God sent for mother and little broth- valley of death or pit of vice in an in-"Yes, my lad," said the man, over- por-cating beto the timber. Even in I the and there a Hufe.!!